HIGHLIGHT OF THE DAY for the little Davenport girls is calling for Dad after his day's work is finished. Mrs. Davenport, a Methodist, says, "We would love to have a marvelous college like this, with its environment and spirit, to send our children to."

Representatives of the many family groups on Brigham Young University campus this summer is the Frank T. Davenport family of Arlington, Va.

Davenport came here on a National Science Foundation Summer Research Grant, and is working with Dr. Lester Allen, doing research on chromosomes during the summer months.

"To give a greater picture of all living things," as he explained his work.

PHILLIS Davenport, and the three little Davenports, Amy, 8; Wendy, 6; and Judith, 4, came too. They are staying at Whitney Hall, one of the Heritage Halls.

Summer Formal Date Change

"The summer formal has been changed from Friday, Aug. 12, to Saturday, Aug. 13," announced Dave Thomas, vice president of summer school.

The dance will be strictly date and dress will be semi-formal which means men wear dark suits and girls wear the usual formal attire.

The theme and the name of the band will be announced in Friday's Universe.

MUSIC CLINIC DANCE

Students have been invited by the Music Clinic to attend a dance Friday night in the Joseph Smith Ballroom. The dance will follow a concert which begins at 8:15.

This is our next summer activity for all students," says Kiane Forstren, summer school studentbody president. "We urge all of you to attend and make this event as successful as the chicken fry, which was really tops," Forstren adds.

ASSEMBLY

Students interested in working on the student assembly Aug. 18 are asked to report to the Executive Council room tomorrow, 7 p.m. in the Student Service Center.

Both the young Davenports have college degrees from State Teachers College, Edinboro, Pa. Mrs. Davenport, an English major, is working on "Educational TV in the Washington Area" as her thesis subject. Davenport, a big, active woman, graduated from Lincoln High School, Washington, D. C., has been a recipient of three National Science Grants. He majored in science and has his M.S. in education from William and Marys College.

How she likes Brigham Young University! "It is an inspiration to me to see what the Mormon Church has done in building a Christian university," she said.

It makes me determined to see that the twelve million Methodists put some of the same spirit into their educational institutions.

"WE WOULD love to have a marvelous college like this, with its environment and spirit, to send our children to," said Mrs. Davenport.

They are enjoying the friendships they have made at BYU. Eleven scientists and their families are on campus through grants from the National Science Foundation, and many of them live in dormitories at the Davenports' home.

"We have had great times together," said the Davenports.

NIXON WILL remain in Washington while congress is in session, according to his campaign staff.

He will be available here about two hours later,

SUBJECTS UP FOR discussion during Nixon's visit to the White House will be the campaign and what strategy to recommend to GOP house and senate leaders when the Democratic congress reconvenes next week.

Democrats are pledged to new defense and welfare proposals likely to prove expense but popular in this election year.

Nixon arrived at the President's vacation headquarters already under attack by Sen. John F. Kennedy's Democratic headquarters as "a political campaign leaving the sinking ship" through repudiation of administration defense and farm programs.

Sources here said Nixon and Lodge would discuss with Eisenhower what the President proposes to tell, and ask, the reconvened congress.

EISENHOWER has hinted that he might have new defense proposals of his own, geared to the tough new attitudes of Soviet Russia.

Before the candidates left Washington, Nixon said he believed that the Vice President and Lodge planned to "blanket the United States like it has never been blanketed before." It will be, they said, the "best coordi-

Entertainers Score Big Success in Pacific

by Jim Freestone
University Entertainment Editor

"We have had nothing but raves about the show and it is undoubtedly the best unit of the year," says Tokyo Special Services director, who brought Brigham Young University's Program Bureau entertainers.

James Lawrence, Program Bureau chairman and tour director, said the group had been received enthusiastically at every performance since the first of their tour of the Pacific Command.

The BYU student performers left Salt Lake City July 11 and are scheduled to return to the United States Aug. 15. They are touring the U. S. Army installations, the invitation of the Army, and their show is entitled "Curtain Time"; it was presented to the local campus and the public just prior to their departure for the Pacific.

PERSONS making the trip include Jane Thompson, program director; Del Faddis, master of ceremonies; Hi-Belles, girls' trio composed of Jerry Olson, Beverly White and Carol Pulley; Sam Francis, impersonator; Ray Rawls, comedian, pianist and drummer; Shirley Oswald and Diane Chatwin, dancers and choreographers; Ira Lou Cheney, musical background.

soprano; John and Bob Thompson, vocalists; Norm Nielsen, comedian; Raymond Sumner, director; Eita Barner, dramatic reader.

Performances have been given at Brady Air Force, the naval base in Sasebo, and Iwakuni Air Force Base. Presently the troupe is in Korea but will soon return for two days' rest before traveling to Okinawa.

Religious Slides To Be Shown Thursday Night

"God's Mighty Work" is the title of a public showing of colored slides with effective narration and background music open to students and public in the Stover lounge at Helaman Hall on Thursday night.

Ten Winkels, a speech major and missionary to the Netherlands, took the pictures on his trip around the world recently and has arranged the pictures in sequence with a script and music. Lynn A. Kinney, professor of speech, will be the narrator and Dr. Crawford Gates of the Music Dept. will provide the musical background.

Nixon, Lodge Fly To Confer With Ike After Washington Talks

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 1.—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and running mate Henry Cabot Lodge flew here to confer with President Eisenhower today after five hours of campaign strategy talks with GOP leaders in Washington.

Nixon and Lodge left Washington by plane at 3:31 p.m. (EDT) and arrived here about two hours later.

SUBJECTS UP for discussion during Nixon's visit to the White House will be the campaign and what strategy to recommend to GOP house and senate leaders when the Democratic congress reconvenes next week.

Democrats are pledged to new defense and welfare proposals likely to prove expense but popular in this election year.

Nixon arrived at the President's vacation headquarters already under attack by Sen. John F. Kennedy's Democratic headquarters as "a political campaign leaving the sinking ship" through repudiation of administration defense and farm programs.

Sources here said Nixon and Lodge would discuss with Eisenhower what the President proposes to tell, and ask, the reconvened congress.

EISENHOWER has hinted that he might have new defense proposals of his own, geared to the tough new attitudes of Soviet Russia.

Before the candidates left Washington, Nixon said he believed that the Vice President and Lodge planned to "blanket the United States like it has never been blanketed before." It will be, they said, the "best coordinated campaign in presidential history."

NIXON WILL remain in Washington while congress is in session, the aides said, including "any Saturday." They said Nixon believed that Kennedy and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, will spend their full time to congressional sessions.

Eisenhower's hints about new defense proposals could take part of the heat off Nixon, who is accused of not honoring loyalty to the President and failing to defend the need to match Democratic demands for more defense.

Nixon also has a farm problem to discuss with Eisenhower in view of Democratic insistence upon more help for farmers. Nixon has broken with Eisenhowers agriculture secretary, Ezra Taft Benson.

THE VICE PRESIDENT came under fire in a joint statement by five Democratic governors and three Democratic senators that has the support of Kennedy. The statement reached that Nixon had agreed with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on the need for increased defense spending in stand in conflict with that of Eisenhowers.

Eisenhower also met today with the National Security Council, apparently to consider the continuing crisis in the Congo and other matters. Clare H. Timbleflake, U. S. ambassador to Congo, was among non-council members summoned to the meeting.

The President, back at his vacation headquarters after trips to Chicago and Denver, played golf in sunny weather this morning at the Newport Country Club.

Wilkinson Elected To GOP Post

President Ernest L. Wilkinson returned this weekend from the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

While in the windy city, President Wilkinson was elected vice president of the Education, Science and Technology subcommittee of the GOP Platform Committee.

The BYU president went to the convention as a Utah delegate and member of the Platform Committee.

THE ABOVE PICKUP was struck by a Corvette at First N. and University and apparently received the worst of the engagement. Fortunately here no one was injured, but the grim reaper is no respecter of persons and chops them down at the oddest moments as highway accident records reveal.

Does Your Car Handle Like A Nightmare? Be Sure Your Shock Absorbers Are Safe

Some cars handle like a dream. Others act more like a nightmare. They buck, they wobble, they fight the steering mechanism. Sometimes it seems as if they purposely seek out the worst bumps in the road just to test their owners' endurance.

IN SOME respects a car is very much like a living body. When it begins to act up, chances are that something is radically wrong. And more often than not, the trouble can be traced to the neglected and unsuspected parts.

One of the least understood causes of automobile accidents and deterioration stems from worn-out shock absorbers. Many car owners who are normally careful to replace damaged parts tend to ignore these small but important gadgets, but they feel that they are hardly a necessity. After all, they say, shock absorbers merely insure a smoother ride. Why should I spend money on a luxury?

This is not quite true. Shock absorbers do provide a more comfortable ride. On new cars, they are responsible for that "floating-in-the-clouds" feeling, a feeling which quickly diminishes as the car passes the 20,000 mile mark. It is often that bumps and jolts are felt with increasing regularity.

IT COULD easily be argued that comfort is hardly a luxury. On long and tiring trips, it can prevent the usual exhaustion produced by uneven roads and bumpy highways. It makes all traveling more pleasant and enjoyable.

Bus comfort is far from the principal reason for checking whether you have that jolting shocks are an important factor to driving safety. In a report issued by the Rayco Mfg. Co., leading specialists in shock absorber installation, the following effects of bad shocks were noted:

1. WHEEL bounce is completely uncontrolled. Wheels actually leave the ground, making steering extremely difficult often resulting in loss of driver control.

2. SIDESWAY and skidding is increased. On a curve, or a high speed, this can easily produce collision or upset.

3. Cars will often jump so violently on bumps that the driver and passengers may hit the roof.

4. WHEEL "shimmy" will occur frequently, straining the springs severely or snapping them.

5. TIRES are required to absorb extra shocks causing rapid wear and deterioration.

Shock absorbers are probably the cheapest insurance against serious highway accidents. At Hayco, for example, installation is free.

THE GREATEST danger of aging shock absorbers is summed up because the efficiency decrease is slow and gradual. A trained mechanic can easily check this by a finger-test for leaking oil around the cylinder. If oil is present this means that the seal is shot and the hydraulic action stopped; in other words, a dangerous situation exists.

If your car has shown signs of weariness lately, don't wait for an accident, check your shock absorbers now. New ones may save your tires and your springs—or even your life.

Who'll Tell the Family . . .

Parents, It Could Happen to Your Children; Driver, Not Car Is Responsible For Auto Accidents

How would you go about telling a mother and father their son had just been killed in a wreck? At this point it matters little who caused it.

The above presents a problem faced daily across our country. It is a commonplace one and difficult to handle. It gets to be almost boring to ignore, although the silence often nearly as dead as the one you have just experienced at the scene of the accident. This is the simple part.

THE TOUGH part is to get across to the parents of children living today that the odds are pretty good someone in their family will be injured and maybe killed by an automobile. You've been passing the word along? The driver, not the car, is responsible for the killing. How do you reconcile yourself to the fact that you have been responsible for a death or deaths?

You're reading this with about as many feelings as you can possibly have as you sit in the car ahead. In both cases you won't get the full meaning without you literally feel the impact of the accident. Let's hope the first one is the last chance of its being the last one. Maybe it will give you some idea of what it is like to be responsible for a loaded-two-ton weapon traveling down the highway at fifty miles an hour.

YOU ARE being watched. Have you noticed? Not the police, your children. They have been watching you all their lives. They will imitate, more than you or they realize, what you do.

When you cross about spending a couple of hundred dollars for a new car, or even a ticket, you are being watched. Congratulations! You may have just signed the death warrant of your child-dreams if they live through your driving.

Some among you have never had an accident and don't feel you fit any of the above patterns, but there are many others who will give you the benefit of the doubt and say you're not perfect. That's not good enough. Perfect people get killed too. There is more than one tombstone with the inscription of the name of a person who the guy who had the right of way.

We tell ourselves that it is the "other guy." Who do we think the "other guy" is? You and I are the other guy. You are the other guy for your son.

SAFETY STARTS at home. When road safety has been taught at home, then we have a right to work on the "other guy." When there are no more "other guys" around, we can rest. We can rest. For a split second. One doesn't get any rest in this sort of thing. We write letters. Talk to anyone who will listen. And we have our children memorize and realize the fact that 40,000 people are killed and more than a million injured by automobiles in this country each and every year.

What are you going to do about it? As things are going the odds are you'll catch up with you sooner or later. I'm not worried. It's always the other guy, 40,000 other guys.

of us (let's confess) are short of top physical condition. Our excuse: lack of time. . . we can feel better. . . better. . . progress faster. . . develop and practice physical fitness. . . live longer than you think!

RE ARE many ways to "out" miles away from any gym or athletic field. Virtually every movement is exercise. The trick is to learn to make the most of them, according to YMCA physical education example, they say, when in the morning—do kick your slippers off bed. Ah—that's the easy. But it's better ("fitness") to get down on your knees and head to them, standing while you dress, address. It's another way to get at "everyday" tasks, not doing them the easiest, efficient way.

RE EXERCISE ideas? Here come from the YMCA. Those minutes in the morning can be spent on a brisk walk to the next bus stop. The same walk added exercise can finish off your working day—get off the bus two or three stops before yours and walk home.

If you live in an elevator building—or have business elsewhere—get off two or three floors above or below your destination and walk the rest of the way. Stretching and stretching is terrific exercise.

Many practical, everyday tasks also can decrease stomach aches. Car dirty? Wash and polish it yourself. More important than the few pennies saved—your health.

EVEN TAKING your morning shower can be a body-builder, according to the YMCA's experts. While drying, use your towel as a conditioning aid.

AFTER WORK and dinner, relax. If you're not too tired to face the TV? Why not adopt some new hobbies—dancing, swimming, badminton, bowling and other similar activities? Chances are there's a YMCA near you. At your YMCA you

BYding Ur time

by Chuck Crossdill
University Sports Editor

Out of the welter of conflicting stories regarding the expansion of existing major leagues in baseball or the addition of a third major league, comes this disturbing thought to this reporter.

There are great many records and standards that have been a part of the baseball tradition shunted aside?

FOR EXAMPLE, since the leagues following baseball in the majors (too many years), the 154-game schedule has been in force. Now we don't know how schedules are drawn up but can the same number of games be slated if the leagues expand to 10 clubs as seems to be very likely?

There isn't a more hallowed record in the field of sport nor one which has repelled as many pretenders as Babe Ruth's 60 home runs in 1927. This, of course, was set in 154 games.

Too, Cleveland's record of 111 games won in a single season would be put away in the proverbial mothballs if the schedule were lengthened to accommodate more ball clubs.

Even one considers the deep-seated traditions that have already been breached such as the invasion of the West Coast by the National League and the awarding of American League franchises to Kansas City and Baltimore, maybe we should be more resilient to change.

And speaking of league changes, it appears inevitable that someone's feelings get hurt in the process of progress turn inexorably. According to the local dailies, Utah State alumni are a little upset at Utah and BYU aligning elsewhere.

MUCH THE SAME happened last year in the Northwest when Washington State, Oregon and Oregon State were joined by Washington. Especially were the W.S.U. Cougars more than a little shook up. They came out after the Huskies in November like they hadn't been fed for a week—but spirit alone wasn't enough to handle the Rose Bowl-bound Seattle team.

Talk around the Northwest when we left in June was that perhaps Oregon, a truly fine university, would be next to be admitted to the Big Five.

Story on Big Daddy Lipscomb in SF bears repeating:

Seems the mountainous Baltimore Colt tackle who'd been sea fishing with some buddies recently and fell asleep, Slyly his Colt teammates pulled in the 300-plus line-man's line, filled a bucket full of water and attached it to the line. Naturally the resulting tug was tremendous and Big Daddy awoke with a start, played the bucket for some ten minutes before bringing it up near the boat.

HE TOOK ONE LOOK at the mouth of the bucket and hollered "Man, look at the mouth on this fish!"

Don't think the Queen Mary would be a big enough boat to be on with Big Geno Lipscomb if he ever mislaid his sense of humor.

Read a piece in a magazine the other day bemoaning the time gone by when opposing players on pro teams of all nations didn't engage in fraternizing. Although rules in major league baseball supposedly forbid it and a small fine is sometimes levied, it is becoming more and more a joke.

THE WRITER discussed the bonhomie when the Yankees play Kansas City. The two clubs are virtually interchangeable what with the illustrious Hank Bauer, Don Lassan, Jerry Lumpe and numerous others making it a regular "Old Home Week" when the two teams tangle.

GRAHAM'S DEATH
The death yesterday of Salt Lake City auto mechanic Athol Graham in his effort to save a new land speed record was a somber tragic moment, though as it represented a relatively poor man's all-out attempt to penetrate a rich man's game—super-speed racing cars.

According to news reports, it was simply a matter of the car having too much power and not enough stability. Coming from Washington where the hydroplane has had Seattle pomped daily to see much the same thing there. A home-built craft that simply is not designed to compete with the superior means of wealthy men.

But as long as man lives for speed, there will be tragedies. It can be assumed that Graham's attitude toward the speed record is similar to that of the world-famous mountain climbers whose excuse is "because it's there."

Baltimore Closes AL Gap

United Press International

The Baltimore Orioles are back in the race for the American League race—and their latest resurgence is due to Milt Pappas, who loves to beat the defending champion White Sox.

Baltimore closed to within three games of first place Chicago Monday night as Pappas took his 14th victory, the crew for the third straight time this season, 2-1.

The New York Yankees moved to within a half game of Chicago by edging the Detroit Tigers 3-2 in the fifth. The Washington Senators, who had been Cleveland Indians, won, 3-0, and the Kansas City Athletics took 10 innings to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 8-6, in another American league game.

NO GAMES scheduled in the National League.

Southpaw Luis Arroyo allowed his first two hits in four appearances as the Yankees' new relief ace while preserving Ralph Terry's fifth victory. He took over to 10th inning, pitched and hurled back the rest of the game.

The Yankees won the game with a two-run sixth off loser Pete Burnside, with Hector Lopez and John Blanchard contributing key singles. Al Kaline hit his 10th home run of the season for the Tigers and Eddie Yost equalled Pie Traynor's major league record for third basemen by appearing in the 1,864th game.

PERRY won his 12th game of the year and third straight over Washington, including his third shutout at the Senators' expense. Bubba Phillips drove in the first two Cleveland runs in the second inning with a single. Mike De LaHoz batted in the eighth with a sixthinning hit. Hal Wodzicki absorbed his fourth setback.

Athol Graham Killed On Salt Flats

SALT LAKE CITY — (UPI)

—Athol Graham, 36, Salt Lake garage mechanic, was fatally injured yesterday when his home-made racer went out of control while he was trying for a record 400 miles an hour on Bonneville salt flats.

Graham was crushed when the rear, driving wheels of his comparatively light, four-wheel drive car sheared off his first run yesterday morning.

He was flown to Salt Lake City, rushed to Latter-day Saints Hospital in a police ambulance and taken to surgery. But died at 12:20 p.m.

Officials said, horrified, watched the fatal accident. It was simply a case of too much power and not enough traction. A course steward, Joe Petrali of Claremont, Calif., said that Graham "had to tell me" and what could be done from checking the track, the rear wheels spun loose as Graham was accelerating and the car started into a sidewall spin. The "City of Salt Lake City," built of stainless steel and brilliant red, went over on its right side and ground looped.

There was no explosion and no fire although the car was destroyed and parts of it were strewn along the road the car rolled.
